

armand

Design Kati Meyer-Brühl

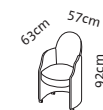

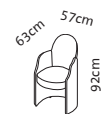

armand is unusual and refreshingly innovative. The comfortable armchair-like chair playfully combines art nouveau and Empire style facets in a new context. A half-moon shaped tub embraces a circular seat base, gives the construction the necessary stability and also forms the backrest and base. At the dining table, armand serves as a dining chair; however, placed next to a sofa, armand has the character of an armchair as it is fabric-covered all-round. As armand's dimensions are also compact and the chair is easy to move around, it can be used and combined with other pieces in many different ways. Matching stool available. Optionally also available with castors instead of gliders. Removable covers.
