

randolph spring

Design Roland Meyer-Brühl

Timeless and durable: exquisite stitching, a compact format and a purist design that shifts the focus on the colours and materials used for the covers – here exclusive untreated leather – ensure that randolph has a subtle effect, which makes the armchair exceptionally adaptable. randolph can be used in living environments, studies and in the contract area, on its own, as a group or in combination with other furniture. The upholstery is made from premium-quality materials; the seat also features a sprung core for slightly springy comfort. The covers are also available in a fabric version; they are removable and can be replaced.
